

LEAD for Pollinators

1624 Idlewood Ave.

Akron, OH 44313

330-803-3449

www.leadforpollinators.org

Jan. 24, 2020

Contact:

Michele Colopy, Executive Director, 330-803-3449, ExecDir@leadforpollinators.org

Terry Lieberman-Smith, Coordinator, 937-272-6549, Coordinator@leadforpollinators.org,

Catalyst, Facilitator, and Collaborator for Pollinators

Do you have a great idea that may qualify for grant funding, but you don't know how to write or manage grants? Do you want to bring your nonprofit beekeeping association into the 21st century so you can motivate other skilled, creative, energized beekeepers to serve? Are you struggling with your beekeeping association management, and need to educate and motivate your board?

A new nonprofit organization, LEAD for Pollinators, is here to provide Leadership, Education, Action, and Development to local and state beekeeping and agricultural associations. LEAD for Pollinators will act as a catalyst, facilitator, and collaborator to support the work of local and state beekeepers and others who work for environmental sustainability.

LEAD for Pollinators is a hive of experienced, diverse, dedicated individuals collaborating for the health and sustainability of honey bees, native pollinators, and the keepers of the ecosystem. The 35 years of combined skills, experience, and educational training of Michele Colopy and Terry Lieberman-Smith has led to wonderful collaborations, shared visions, and purposeful projects on behalf of pollinators and beekeepers. LEAD for Pollinators is joined by the Bee Heroic Project, and Have a Hive to collaborate with Cleveland Pollinator and Native Plants, Inc. as fiscal sponsor.

The nonprofit management, local and state membership association, and beekeeping experience of Ms. Colopy and Ms. Lieberman-Smith combine to provide leadership, education, action, and development to support beekeepers, beekeeping, and association management, growth, and sustainability.

more

Our mission is to provide leadership, education, action, and development to support the health and sustainability of honey bees, native pollinators, and the keepers of the ecosystem.

LEAD for Pollinators is fiscally sponsored by Cleveland Pollinator and Native Plants, Inc. a 501c3 nonprofit organization.

Need to focus your Board on service to your members and the community: contact LEAD for Pollinators for strategic planning and board development. Need help planning a conference or special event: contact LEAD for Pollinators. Let's collaborate and help you serve your honey bees, your beekeepers, and your community.

For more information, visit our website at www.leadforpollinators.org, or contact Michele Colopy, Executive Director, 330-803-3449, ExecDir@leadforpollinators.org or Terry Lieberman-Smith, Coordinator at Coordinator@leadforpollinators.org, 937-272-6549.